

In the beginning...

As a boy, some 80 years ago, I really looked forward and enjoyed shopping with my mother and father at West's General Store. It was an education to see and experience how things were done in this very interesting place.

They sold everything imaginable, all products in bulk – turpentine, coal oil, molasses, yard goods, sewing needs, crocks of butter. All the candy came in large barrels. The items were endless, overalls, aprons, straw hats, if you could name it West's had it. After West's, The Almonte Cold Storage was born under the ownership of J.L. Erskine and Alex & Milton Symington.

The transition continued as Cold Storage turned to The Butcher Shop,

The IGA, The Hardware Store, Stedmans and now a beautiful Mall and this beautiful Creperie. As the sign says, 'A little taste of France right here in Almonte'.

SPECIAL THANKS TO MURRAY S. GUTHRIE FOR WRITING THIS GREAT PIECE.
